Become a leader in strategic communications and public relations. Learn from industry experts through an applied curriculum focused on strategy, digital skills, branding, cause communications and evaluation.

The Master of Professional Studies in Public Relations and Corporate Communications program at Georgetown aims to prepare the next leaders in responsible communication who will use their skills to positively impact the world. Recognized as PRWeek’s Education Program of the Year two years in a row, our program is uniquely positioned among more than 350 graduate communications programs in the United States due to its prioritization of strategic thinking, global perspective, clear writing, digital focus, and applied curriculum.

FEATURES OF THE PROGRAM

• Applied Curriculum: Trendsetters and industry influencers pull real-time challenges directly into the classrooms. Students have worked with clients such as Volvo, GE Healthcare, Amnesty International, Facebook and Shell Oil - among many others.

• Strategic Thinking: Students internalize the Georgetown Framework for Strategic Planning and apply it to challenges throughout the program. Application of the framework reflects individual critical thinking skills, strategic decision-making and creativity.

• Social Impact: The program houses the only academic initiative of its kind in the country in its Center for Social Impact Communication, which attracts students wishing to use their communications skills to foster change.

• Flexibility: The program offers evening courses for working professionals.
