Semester in Washington, D.C. Program
Offered Fall, Spring, and Summer
Explore a New Kind of Semester

Expand your intellectual and cultural horizons in the heart of the nation’s capital through Georgetown University’s Semester in Washington, D.C. Program (SWP). Offered during the Fall, Spring, and Summer semesters, this program features a combination of challenging academics and hands-on practice. Immerse yourself in the vibrant political and cultural landscape of D.C. as you engage with key policymakers, build your professional skills, and take your college experience to the next level.

As a student in SWP, you will spend part of your time in a classroom setting, engaging in stimulating group discussions, listening to guest lectures from international experts and business leaders, and examining the complex issues facing nations, organizations, and decision makers today. Throughout the semester, you will also complete a guided independent research project, working closely with a Georgetown research advisor as you explore a topic of interest and apply the concepts you have learned.

In addition to academic and research pursuits, you will spend several days per week at an internship, building valuable skills at one of the city’s many distinct organizations. Georgetown offers a broad range of internship opportunities at federal agencies, law firms, news organizations, nonprofits, public relations agencies, and many other institutions unique to Washington, D.C.

SWP class meetings and events are held at Georgetown’s downtown campus, centrally located in one of the city’s most exciting and accessible neighborhoods. The campus is within blocks of every Metrorail line and just one mile from historic Capitol Hill.

Learn Through a Different Lens

Internship
Georgetown takes pride in providing you with an unparalleled real-world experience. After enrolling in the program, you will be paired with an internship advisor, who will offer guidance on everything from developing a strong resume to preparing for your initial interview.

Academic Seminar
In these small, interactive sessions, you will learn from distinguished Georgetown faculty while exploring key issues relevant to your area of study. Throughout the semester, you will also engage with prominent business leaders, policymakers, elected officials, and key decision makers.

Research Seminar
Explore a topic relevant to your area of study in a guided, independent research project, where you will work closely with program faculty as you expand your knowledge and build your academic portfolio.

Cultivate Your Skills in One of Six Specialties

- Digital Communications, New Media, and Social Change
- International Commerce and Trade
- International Relations
- Law, Legislation, and Politics
- Politics and Public Policy
- Religion and Political Culture

Choose Your Semester

Fall (15 credit hours)
As a full-time student enrolled at Georgetown University for the semester, you will engage in academic and research pursuits while interning on Tuesdays, Wednesdays, and Thursdays.

Spring (15 credit hours)
As a full-time student enrolled at Georgetown University for the semester, you will engage in academic and research pursuits while interning on Tuesdays, Wednesdays, and Thursdays.

Summer (Up to six credit hours*)
Intern up to five days a week and take an accompanying academic seminar that meets once a week in the morning or evening. Additionally, you will complete a three-credit research seminar.

*You may elect to enroll in an additional three-credit course through Georgetown University’s Summer School.

Students are encouraged to review the policies of their home institutions, schools, and major departments regarding study elsewhere and transfer credit prior to enrolling. Course titles and dates are subject to change and cancellation. For the most up-to-date information, please visit our website: Georgetown University’s Semester in Washington, D.C. Program is administered through the School of Continuing Studies. Rev. 09/2015 | All information accurate at time of printing.
Choose Your Path Forward

At the beginning of the semester, you will have the opportunity to select one of six subject areas as a concentration for your academic seminar.

Digital Communications, New Media, and Social Change
Communications as a change agent
Explore the strategic opportunities and challenges involved with using the Internet and technology in government, social movements, and society in general, while studying the role of strategy in how people interact and communicate.

International Commerce and Trade
Business with a global perspective
This program provides a comprehensive overview of international businesses and institutions involved in the process of global commerce and trade relations. Learn about the current opportunities and challenges facing the world’s marketplace while studying topics that include globalization, international trade, environmental issues, and multinational corporations.

International Relations
Discover a world of connections
In this program, you will study the complex issues facing nations and political decision makers today, along with the forces that drive policy in Washington and beyond. Analyze and discuss world affairs with leaders from both the public and private sectors while developing a broader global perspective through topics that range from rogue states and nuclear proliferation to the daily impact of international trade on domestic economies.

Law, Legislation, and Politics
Explore societal boundaries
Enhance your understanding of legal issues and the law in the city where legislation is crafted, debated, and enforced by some of the greatest minds in the world. Throughout the semester, you will work hand-in-hand with leaders in the legal field and deepen your understanding of the foundations of American law through group discussions and presentations with notable guest speakers.

Politics and Public Policy
Witness democracy in action
Experience democracy in action in the nation’s capital while gaining an insider’s understanding of the complex elements shaping today’s political landscape. In the classroom and on Capitol Hill, you will have the opportunity to meet with key legislative staff, policymakers, federal agents, White House personnel, and the elected officials who fuel the United States’ political engine.

Religion and Political Culture
How religion influences policy
Guided by the brightest minds in religious and political theory, this program examines religion’s influence on policymaking, past and present. Over the course of the semester, you will explore the complex interplay of religion and politics through seminars, group discussions, and unique opportunities to engage with some of D.C.’s leading lobbyists and key policy experts.
Build Your Skills and Broaden Your Network

The Semester in Washington, D.C. Program offers a variety of unique internship opportunities. Whether your interests are in law and public policy or business and new media, Georgetown can help connect you with countless organizations that will broaden your skills and help you forge valuable relationships.

Past internship organizations have included:
- American Bar Association
- American Civil Liberties Union
- American Red Cross
- Amnesty International
- Brookings Institution
- Canadian Embassy
- Carnegie Endowment for International Peace
- Cato Institute
- CBS News
- Center for Hemispheric Defense Studies
- Children’s Rights Council
- CNN Political Unit
- D.C. Office of the Attorney General
- Deloitte Consulting LLP
- Democratic National Committee
- Embassy of France
- Environmental Defense Fund
- Foundation for Defense of Democracies
- Freedom House
- General Services Administration
- The Heritage Foundation
- Human Rights Watch
- The Interfaith Alliance
- League of United Latin American Citizens
- Library of Congress
- NASA History Division
- National Association for the Advancement of Colored People
- National Geographic Society
- National Park Service
- NBC News
- New Zealand Embassy
- Office of Presidential Correspondence, the White House
- Patton Boggs LLP
- Peace Corps
- Republican National Committee
- Sierra Club
- Smithsonian Institution
- Teach for America
- United Nations Foundation
- U.S. Chamber of Commerce
- U.S. Congress
- U.S. Environmental Protection Agency
- U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission
- U.S. Senate
- Voice of America
- World Wildlife Fund
“What drew me to Georgetown’s Semester in Washington, D.C. Program was the chance to get a behind-the-scenes look at political processes in the nation’s capital. I was so impressed with the program and how dedicated our instructors were—they all have incredible stories to tell and add so much to the learning experience.

Georgetown’s program offers some great networking and event opportunities around the city, and I encourage students to make the most of these. It’s easy to forget that you’re in D.C. and that there are all these amazing things around you that you can experience and explore. I also highly recommend taking advantage of the professors’ knowledge and experience. Not only are they very willing to help you in your academics, but they are also willing to help you outside of the classroom in your job search and beyond.”

Felicia Yu
Hometown: Shanghai, China
Mount Holyoke College
SWP alumna, Spring 2012

Felicia is currently an Investment Banking Analyst with Bank of America Merrill Lynch in New York City.

“I selected Georgetown’s Semester in Washington, D.C. Program because I wanted to be immersed in international relations. I learned from exceptional professors in the field and was able to apply that knowledge to my internship at the Peace Corps. This great experience definitely inspired me to apply to the Peace Corps. In addition, I hope to attend Georgetown for my J.D./Ph.D., and SWP helped me see that Georgetown is a perfect fit for me.

I would encourage students to be proactive during their time in Washington by making connections and fostering relationships. Never be afraid to walk up to an influential speaker and introduce yourself! In addition, strive to research all the great events taking place within D.C. and attend them with other students in the program.”

Ahva Sadeghi
Hometown: San Antonio, Texas
University of Arizona
SWP alumna, Summer 2013

Ahva is currently pursuing her master’s degree in Human Rights at The London School of Economics and Political Science.

“It would encourage students to be proactive during their time in Washington by making connections and fostering relationships.”

-Ahva Sadeghi

“My advice to the current SWP participants is to really take advantage of what D.C. presents. In the beginning, it might seem a bit overwhelming because the program requires students to keep up with academic work while maintaining an internship, but it will get easier once it becomes routine. You should try to attend as many events as possible, connect with local alumni from both your home college and Georgetown University, and maintain good relationships with people at your internship site. You never know how these experiences may lead to the next opportunity in your life.”

Felicia Yu
Hometown: Shanghai, China
Mount Holyoke College
SWP alumna, Spring 2012

Felicia is currently an Investment Banking Analyst with Bank of America Merrill Lynch in New York City.

“Both the internship experience and the events we attended throughout the program taught us how to think and act like professionals.”

-Felicia Yu
U.S. leaders often come to Georgetown to present their policy positions. Over the last two election cycles alone, Georgetown students have engaged with elected officials from across the ideological spectrum, including Democratic House Minority Leader Nancy Pelosi, Republican Congressman Ron Paul, former Director of the Central Intelligence Agency Michael Hayden, and former Homeland Security Secretary Michael Chertoff. When international dignitaries visit the nation’s capital, they choose Georgetown for their academic stage. Fourteen U.S. presidents—from George Washington to Barack Obama—have given landmark speeches at Georgetown. There is no setting more dynamic to witness history in the making than Washington, D.C. In addition, Georgetown’s downtown location provides even more opportunities to be in the center of it all. In the past, SWP students have participated in events and engaged in one-on-one conversations with the following experts:

- Spencer Abraham
  Former Secretary, Department of Energy; Former Senator, State of Michigan
- Mike Allen
  Correspondent, POLITICO
- Jim Angle
  Chief Washington Correspondent, Fox News
- President José María Aznar
  Former President, Spain
- Ben Bernanke
  Former Chairman, Federal Reserve Bank
- John Bolton
  Former U.S. Ambassador to the United Nations
- Tucker Carlson
  Co-Founder and Editor-in-Chief of the Daily Caller
- President Aleksander Kwasniewski
  Former President, Poland
- Rex R. Tillerson
  Acting President of the United States Institute of Peace
- Bruce Mehlman/Alex Vogel
  Founders, Mehlman, Vogel, and Castagnetti lobbying firm
- Ken Mehlman
  Former Chairman, National Republican Party; Campaign Manager for the Re-Election Campaign of President George W. Bush
- Brian Mulroney
  Former Prime Minister of Canada
- John O’Keefe
  Former Ambassador, Kyrgyzstan
- Penny Pado
  Director of International Activities, National Endowment for the Arts
- Reza Pahlavi
  His Royal Highness, Prince of Iran
- Partners at Hart and Lake Research, Nation’s Leading Polling Firm
- Tim Pawlenty
  Former Governor, State of Minnesota
- Roger Pilon
  Vice President for Legal Affairs, Cato Institute
- Robert Rely
  Writer and Senior Fellow, American Foreign Policy Council
- Paul Saunders
  Executive Editor, The Nixon Center; Associate Publisher, The National Interest
- Scott Slesser
  Former Deputy Assistant for Communications, President George W. Bush
- Michael Sheehan
  Speech Coach for President Clinton and President Obama
- Dinesh D'Souza
  President, Center for the National Interest
- Levar Stoney
  Executive Director, Virginia Democratic Party
- Namik Tan
  Ambassador of Turkey to the United States
- Ted Turner
  Founder, CNN
- Rick Wiley
  Political Director, Republican National Committee
- John Yoo
  Former Official, Department of Justice; Former Legal Advisor, President George W. Bush
- Jamie Elise Zuehlke
  Member and Senior Policy Advisor, House Judiciary Committee
Learn From Distinguished Faculty

Amanda Slobe

Amanda Slobe, a contractor with ActioNet, Inc., is the Special Assistant to the Chief Information Officer at the U.S. Department of Energy. In addition, she teaches the International Relations Academic Seminar in Georgetown University’s Semester in Washington, D.C. Program. Prior to her current role, Slobe worked in the Office of Foreign Missions at the U.S. Department of State. She earned her B.A. in International Relations at the State University of New York at Geneseo, during which time she spent a summer in Spain and a semester in Egypt. While living overseas, she studied Spanish and Arabic, and taught English to asylum seekers and refugees. After her undergraduate studies, she moved back to Egypt, where she witnessed history unfold during the Egyptian Revolution and earned her M.A. in International Human Rights Law from the American University in Cairo.

Sam Potolicchio

Sam Potolicchio, Ph.D., is the Director of Global and Custom Education for the McCourt School of Public Policy at Georgetown University and the Distinguished Professor and Department Chair of Global Leadership Studies at the Russian Presidential Academy, an international leadership-training program. Potolicchio also serves as the President of the Preparing Global Leaders Foundation, a leadership-training program with campuses in Russia, Macedonia, Croatia, and Jordan. Additionally, he is a visiting professor at New York University as well as the official lecturer on American Federalism for the Open World Leadership program at the Library of Congress, where he speaks weekly to visiting dignitaries from the post-Soviet republics. He has written book chapters on religion and politics that have been published in volumes by Congressional Quarterly Press and Oxford University Press and has delivered keynote lectures internationally at more than 150 different universities in 50 countries, including Oxford, Yale, Dartmouth, Brown, Sorbonnes, Warwick, Cambridge, and Bologna. Potolicchio was named by the Princeton Review as one of the “Best Professors in America” in 2012, the only one chosen from his field. He has received numerous teaching awards at Georgetown and was the recipient of the K. Patricia Cross Award from the American Association of Colleges and Universities as one of the future leaders of American higher education in 2011. Potolicchio earned a B.A. in psychology from Georgetown, a master of theological studies from Harvard, and a bachelor’s, master’s, and doctorate from Georgetown in government.

Bradley A. Blakeman

Bradley A. Blakeman, J.D., was a member of President George W. Bush’s Senior Staff. He served from 2001–2004 as Deputy Assistant to the President for Appointments and Scheduling, Vetting and Research, Correspondence, and Surrogate Scheduling. Blakeman can be seen regularly as a Republican strategist on FOX News, MSNBC, BBC, CNN, and Al Jazeera. He is published regularly in POLITICO, U.S. News & World Report, and Newsmax. Blakeman played a major role in the 2000 presidential election as a Senior Advisor and played a critical role in the Florida recount—a role that landed him a part in the HBO Film “Recount.” He has also been an advisor on the ABC TV drama series “Commander in Chief.” Blakeman is an attorney licensed to practice in the state of New York and the District of Columbia and is currently a principal with The 1600 Group, a private corporation dedicated to providing strategic advice, policy implementation, and strategy, as well as crisis management and communications strategies to foreign governments and foreign and domestic corporations. Blakeman has been active in presidential politics since 1980. He was also appointed to serve as a member of the United States Holocaust Memorial Council during the George H.W. Bush administration.

“You will be given opportunities and experiences that will last a lifetime. The blending of real world experience and academic excellence will be your reward for time spent in Washington, D.C.”

- Bradley A. Blakeman
Explore the City at the Center of It All

Georgetown University is one of the world’s leading academic and research institutions, offering a unique educational experience that prepares the next generation of global citizens to lead and make a difference in the world. Established in 1789, Georgetown is the nation’s oldest Catholic and Jesuit university. Drawing upon this legacy, students are provided with a world-class learning experience focused on educating the whole person through exposure to different cultures and beliefs. Coupling the University’s Jesuit values and its location in Washington, D.C., Georgetown offers students a distinct opportunity to learn, experience, and understand more about the world.

Discover Washington, D.C.

As a student in SWP, you will find your experience here to be like nowhere else. Studying in the nation’s capital at Georgetown puts you right in the center of politics, law, media, museums, and culture, giving you access to exciting experiences both inside and outside of the classroom. Washington, D.C., is one of the U.S.’s most diverse and international cities, with residents from all walks of life and all parts of the globe.

Housing

In choosing where to live in Washington, D.C., you should consider cost, access to public transportation, and safety. While housing is not included in the tuition costs, Georgetown can assist you in your search for short-term housing options during your semester.

Application Requirements

To be considered for admission into the Semester in Washington, D.C. Program at Georgetown University, you must submit the following items:

1. Completed online application
2. Resume or CV
3. Official transcript(s)
   Official transcripts must be in a sealed, signed envelope from all relevant institutions of higher education previously attended. A transcript is considered official only if it is mailed in a sealed, signed envelope. Please note that transcripts from outside the United States require an evaluation by World Education Services (WES, www.wes.org) or Educational Credential Evaluators (ECE, www.ece.org).
4. One letter of recommendation
   Please submit one letter of recommendation (on letterhead) from an academic or professional contact, together with the recommendation form.
5. Essay
   Please submit a one-page essay explaining how Georgetown’s Semester in Washington, D.C. Program ties into your studies to date and how it will contribute to your professional development.
6. $50 application fee

For International Students

Non-Native English Speakers

1. TOEFL or IELTS Scores

International Students*

1. Full-time enrollment
   Full-time enrollment necessary for F–1 student status.
2. Completed immigration questionnaire
3. Transcripts evaluation
   Transcripts evaluation by WES (www.wes.org) or ECE (www.ece.org).

*All documents must be translated into English. More details for international students can be found here: scs.georgetown.edu/admissions/for-international-students

Priority Application Deadlines:

- Fall Term - July 1
- Spring Term - November 1
- Summer Term - March 1

Visit scs.georgetown.edu/swpdc to begin your application.
GEORGETOWN UNIVERSITY
Semester in Washington, D.C. Program
640 Massachusetts Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20001

scs.georgetown.edu/swpdc