MPJO-505-01: DIGITAL ESSENTIALS
GEORGETOWN UNIVERSITY: MPS-JOURNALISM
Mondays 8 p.m. to 10:30 p.m. | Spring 2015

Instructor: Jeff Sonderman
Georgetown Downtown, Room C226 (Mac Lab)
• Office hours are by appointment.

COURSE OVERVIEW
This course examines the essential digital skills needed in the field of journalism today. We will study the current media landscape to help students understand how digital skills and sensibilities are integrated with reporting, content creation, information dissemination and audience-building efforts at news organizations of all sizes.

The course involves a survey of key issues affecting the day-to-day work of modern journalists, as well as an examination of emerging technologies, platforms and ideas. Case studies, readings, media surveillance and guest lectures will help students learn the core skills needed to add to their fundamental reporting background, to broaden their career opportunities and to think entrepreneurially about how to shape journalism.

The final project will consist of a semester-long, team-created news website that implements the full range of skills covered in the course.

This is a core course of the MPS Journalism program, and students must earn a “B” (83) or higher to pass the course. Please see the Graduate Student Handbook for more details.

COURSE OBJECTIVES
By the end of this course, students will:
• Possess practical, effective and applicable digital skills
• Know how to create a news website and distribute original content using free tools
• Be familiar with how today’s journalists are building new digital careers
• Know how to find, track and discuss current trends and issues in digital news media
• Know how to conduct an audit of their personal digital brand

READING
There is no required text for this course. Instead, the instructor will assign specific pieces of required reading during relevant weeks. But students are expected to pay attention to discussions about digital news and the news industry from sources, including:
• AmericanPressInstitute.org / Need to Know newsletter
• NiemanLab.org
• Poynter.org
ATTENDANCE
Missing more than two classes will result in a final grade reduction of one level (for example, an A will be converted to an A-). Absences for classes, beyond the initial two, will result in further reduction of the final grade. If you are absent for more than four classes, you will be in danger of failing this course.

In addition, any absence or lack of engagement will lower the portion of your grade determined by in-class participation. Attendance and active participation during class lectures and discussions are extremely important to the quality of the learning experience. In the case of an emergency or extreme circumstances that will require you to miss multiple classes, please contact me immediately.

CLASSROOM ETIQUETTE, CLASS PARTICIPATION AND LATE WORK
Respect: You should treat your classmates with respect. I’ll expect this both in your verbal communication but also in your non-verbal communication. This means: Pay attention and be empathetic.

Participation: Classes are long. We’ll take a break each class, but I expect you to be attentive while we’re in session. This means: If we’re having discussion, you’re participating. If we’re working on our projects, you’re engaged and interacting with your teammates or other classmates. Also: Park your phone and messaging apps unless instructed to use them for class purposes.

Late work: Deadlines matter. Late assignments will be marked down one level (for example, an A will be converted to an A-). Work will not be accepted more than one day after it is due, but will receive a zero instead. Students may discuss with the instructor, in advance of a deadline, the possibility for extending an assignment deadline in the case of extreme, unforeseeable personal issues. Such requests may or may not be granted.

Instructional continuity: In the event of a weather emergency (or any other widespread emergency) that would close the Georgetown Downtown building, we will plan to meet virtually through online videoconferencing tools. More information will be provided on how this will work later in the semester.

The instructor will provide a warning by mid-semester to any student who appears to be on track for a poor final grade.

UNIVERSITY RESOURCES

Georgetown offers a variety of support systems for students that can be accessed on main campus or at the downtown location:
STUDENTS WITH DISABILITIES POLICY
Students with documented disabilities have the right to specific accommodations that do not fundamentally alter the nature of the course. Students with disabilities should contact the Academic Resource Center (Leavey Center, Suite 335; 202-687-8354; arc@georgetown.edu; http://ldss.georgetown.edu/index.cfm) before the start of classes to allow time to review the documentation and make recommendations for appropriate accommodations. If accommodations are recommended, you will be given a letter from ARC to share with your professors. You are personally responsible for completing this process officially and in a timely manner. Neither accommodations nor exceptions to policies can be permitted to students who have not completed this process in advance.

GEORGETOWN HONOR SYSTEM
All students are expected to maintain the highest standards of academic and personal integrity in pursuit of their education at Georgetown. Academic dishonesty in any form is a serious offense, and students found in violation are subject to academic penalties that include, but are not limited to, failure of the course, termination from the program, and revocation of degrees already conferred. All students are held to the Honor Code. The Honor Code pledge follows:

In the pursuit of the high ideals and rigorous standards of academic life, I commit myself to respect and uphold the Georgetoun University Honor System: To be honest in any academic endeavor, and To conduct myself honorably, as a responsible member of the Georgetoun community, as we live and work together.

PLAGIARISM
Stealing someone else’s work is a terminal offense in journalism, and it will wreck your career in academia, too. Students are expected to work with integrity and honesty in all their assignments. The Georgetown University Honor System defines plagiarism as "the act of passing off as one's own the ideas or writings of another." More guidance is available through the Gervase Programs at http://gervaseprograms.georgetown.edu/honor/system/53377.html.
If you have any doubts about plagiarism, paraphrasing and the need to credit, check out http://www.plagiarism.org.

SYLLABUS MODIFICATION

The instructor reserves the right to update the syllabus during the semester, especially as it pertains to the timing of guest speakers. In those instances, the instructor will provide ample warning of any changes.
CLASS SCHEDULE
Each week students are expected to email a brief summary of their ideas and lessons from at least three articles, blog posts, videos, conference sessions, etc., pertaining to digital news or the changing news industry. I may assign specific pieces of required reading some weeks.
