

INTRODUCTION TO INTERNATIONAL RELATIONS GOVT-060

Summer 2020
Monday-Thursday, 3:15-5:15pm
Intercultural Center 118

Professor: Matthew Kroenig
Office: ICC 656
E-mail: mhk32@georgetown.edu
Office Hours: M-Th, after class

Course Objectives

This course has three objectives. First, the course provides an introduction to the major theories of international politics. We begin by asking what theories are and how they help us understand the world. Then, we will examine theories designed to answer the most important questions about international politics: Why do states go to war? What are the prospects for international cooperation? Are democratic states more peaceful than authoritarian regimes? What role do international institutions, such as the United Nations, play in managing international politics? How has globalization altered the nature of international politics and the international economy?

Second, the class provides a basic history of major international events of the twentieth century. In particular, we review the history of World War I, the interwar period, World War II, and the Cold War. Not only is this history intrinsically important, but it also provides empirical evidence with which to evaluate the validity of different theoretical approaches to international politics.

Finally, this class evaluates the implications of theory and history for contemporary international politics. This class is not a current events class, but a primary objective is to provide students with the tools to analyze current events in a rigorous, theoretically-informed manner.

Requirements

Attendance

Attendance at all class lectures is required.

Readings

Required readings should be completed before the class for which they are assigned. The exams and review essay will require you to have a strong comprehension of the material covered in both the readings and the lectures.

Examinations

There will be an in-class midterm examination on July 21 and an in-class final examination on August 6.

Procedures

Office Hours

The professor will hold office hours after class each day.

Grading

Your final grade will be calculated as follows:

Midterm Examination	40%
Paper	40%
Participation (Section)	20%

Plagiarism

Plagiarism or other acts of academic dishonesty will not be tolerated. As defined by the Georgetown University Honor Council, plagiarism is “the act of passing off as one's own the ideas or writings of another.”

Canvas

A Canvas site has been created for this class. On the site, you will find announcements, the syllabus, pdf copies of the readings, lecture slides, and information about assignments.

Reading Assignments

In addition to the books and articles below, you should read the international affairs section of a major national newspaper, such as the New York Times or the Washington Post, on a daily basis. You might also consider reading the Economist, which is generally considered the best weekly news magazine available. Lectures will often include references to contemporary events, so it is critical that you are aware of important developments in international affairs.

The following required texts are available online or at the Georgetown University Bookstore:

Robert J. Art and Robert Jervis, International Politics: Enduring Concepts and Contemporary Issues, 12th Edition (New York: Prentice Hall, 2015)

Matthew Kroenig, The Return of Great Power Rivalry: Democracy versus Autocracy from the Ancient World to the US and China (Oxford University Press, 2020)
